BOROUGH BANK'S BOOKS STOLEN AND RETURNED BY CLERK

Records Sold to Newspaper by Thieving Employee and Brought Back to Be Handed Over to State Examiner.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY HAS ACCOUNTS, BUT MUTILATED.

McCarren's Notes for $13,000 Paid, as Were Others Not Properly Recorded—Edward M. Shepard Retained by Depositors and Stockholders to Oppose Receivership.

A report that the Borough Bank of Brooklyn was robbed some time within the past ten days of an important bundle of documents, checks, ledger leaves, notes and the bank "tickler" or loan book index, proves to be unfounded. District Attorney Clarke has in his possession the "tickler"—on which he was at work to-day—and all the documents and books necessary in the further investigation of the affairs of the bank. It is true that some of the books show that pages were torn out after the bank closed, but the transactions recorded on those pages are being laboriously traced through other books.

On the day the Borough Bank closed one of the clerks gathered up a bundle of notes, checks, the "tickler" and other documents, stuffed them in his pocket and carried them away. He sold them to a morning newspaper.

The newspaper kept the stolen property for a time, and then turned it over to Bank Examiner Hayes, who, in turn, passed it to Assistant District Attorney Elder. In today's edition of the paper which bought the stuff from the thieving clerk appears a flamboyant account of the "midnight raid" in which it is alleged the documents were abstracted.

Clerk Is Under Guard. Detectives have had the clerk who stole and sold the papers under constant surveillance. In the hunt after him the District Attorney has not been bothered with him. His time will come later.

The Patrick H. McCarren notes, which were in the Borough Bank when it suspended, have been paid. There were three notes, one for $7,000, signed by Senator McCarren, and two of $1,000 and $2,000, respectively, which bore his indorsement. It is believed that the notes were paid on the day the bank failed, or within a short time following.

"When we began the investigation," said Assistant District Attorney Elder to-day, "we found on the face of the things, missing notes aggregating in amount up to six figures. The natural assumption was that these notes had been destroyed."

"Further investigations showed that many of them had been paid and that the payments had not been properly recorded. The amount of the apparently missing notes which we have been unable to trace is now small."

Shepard Stockholders' Counsel. "I believe," continued Mr. Elder, "that the Borough Bank is now solvent and able to meet every obligation. Great improvement has been wrought by the directors."

Edward M. Shepard was retained to-day to aid the depositors and stockholders in their fight to keep the bank out of the hands of a permanent receiver. Mr. Shepard, Paul Grout and Samuel S. Whitehouse will go to Kingston to-night to appear before Justice Beets to-morrow and argue for the discharge of the temporary receiver, Henry M. Powell.

The loss to the bank resulting from the methods of Gow, Maxwell and Campbell and certain others reached $1,500,000. Since the failure the bank has been strengthened, according to Mr. Whitehouse, to the extent of $1,500,000.

The losses incurred through Gow's transactions, for which he could be held personally liable, have all been secured. In addition to the real estate and securities which Gow turned over to the bank, the directors hold an as-

REGULARS SEE ARMY HORSE WIN AT BENNING

Soldiers Swarm at Washington Track to See Cavalrymen in Race.

FIREBRAND GETS A CUP.

My Grace Captures Steeplechase, With Warrenton in Second Place.

(Special to The Evening World.)

BENNING RACE TRACK. Nov. 29.—This was Army day at Benning. Soldiers from near-by forts and battalions were admitted free. There were several hundred on hand. All came to see the novelty race for the Army Mounted Service Cup. There were twelve entries, and they all went to the post. To the regulars the race was a joke, but to the soldiers it was very important.

The regulars bet on any old thing, but it wasn't long before the soldiers' money made Gregg, ridden by Saddler James McGrath, the favorite. They paraded to the post in single file and weren't long there before they got away. Dan shot to the front like a tiger and the regulars yelled. Dan's officer got the hope in the stretch, when Gregg, the favorite, began to close, and caught him. Dan was tiring now, but his rider, Miller, went to the bat and kept him going long enough to be second. Randolph was third. The winner comes from Troop G, Thirtieth Cavalry, Fort Meyer, Va. Numbers of the troop yelled themselves hoarse on the lawn as they won. Many of them had bet their month's pay on him.

Comedienne a Winner. Comedienne won the opening event after running a great race, just getting up in time to win by a head. The Wilson stable, Dolly Spangler and Saugwine, was made favorite after contenders were scratched. Both were away badly, and, considering this, Saugwine ran a good race in getting up to be second. Tight and True led to well into the stretch, but only to quit at the post. Dan was second in the stretch, and Henry, his rider, claimed a foul, which-for a change—was not allowed.

Easy for My Grace.

My Grace opened favorite in the Southern Steeplechase for Hunters, but a heavy play on Warrenton sent his price back to 2 to 1, and that of Warrenton to 11 to 1. My Grace won easily after five others had tired from making the pace. Warrenton was an easy second, only to quit at the post. Dan was third, and Henry, his rider, claimed a foul, which-for a change—was not allowed.

Firebrand Wins a Cup.

The Autumn Amateur Cup was won by Tommy Wright, of Baltimore, in front of Flying Machine, J. P. Morgan. Wright never took a chance. Young Firebrand was a favorite, but he never prominent. Wilkes Lackey, a long shot, beat out Noblesse Oblee, another long shot, for the above money.

Sixth a Betting Event.

Sam H. Harris, plumed on to win in the sixth race, again failed his followers, and the books won thousands on his defeat. High Jumper was away last, but he was in the race in the backstretch. The winner was Poqueesing, who was more or less neglected due to the play on Sam H. Harris. Poqueesing won easily at the end, with Greenback second and Hooley third. This was the biggest betting event of the day.

NEW ORLEANS RESULTS.

CITY PARK RACE TRACK, NEW ORLEANS. Nov. 29.—It has been rumored here that the opening meeting at the Fair Grounds would be conducted under the government of the American Turf Association, which was meant to imply that the last prop was about to be taken away from the older jockey club. This rumor, however, was completely denied.

A chill wind and a heavy holding track made this a decidedly odd day at City Park. Excepting in the opening event all the races were for selling stakes. The results:

FIRST RACE.—Purse $200; maiden, two-year-olds; five and a half furlongs. —Greenback, 109 (J. Hannon), 5 to 1.
